Notes:
There's a lot of product coming out this month, but once again the biggest news has nothing to do with the release schedule. With the final bidding in place, GAINAX has licensed Evangellion to AD Vision, who promptly announced that they were adding footage to the episodes in an effort to increase the show's quality. It came as a surprise to everyone, therefore, when GAINAX let it be known that not only didn't they agree to this, they weren't going to allow it. More on this as it develops. Manga is back on track this month with five new releases, with the subtitled Macross II in there. Word has it that Mad Bull is a tad more adult than the normal Manga release, so you know that it's going to sell.
AD Vision continues its Go Nagai collection with Abashiri Family and Hanappe Bazooka.
